Deny Bout Is Responsible For Bank's Failure

Great Falls Institution Closes Doors But Denial Is Made Financing of Fight Had Any Connection.

(By The Associated Press)
GREAT FALLS, Mont., July 10.—George H. Stanton, president of the Stanton Trust and Savings Bank of this city which failed to open for business yesterday denies there is any connection between closing the institution and the financing of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight at Shelby, Mont., on July 4. L. H. Hux, executive vice president of banks, who is here to investigate the bank's affairs supported the statement. Stanton was one of the men who assisted in raising the second $100,000 that was paid Dempsey for his guarantee of $100,000 to meet Gibbons for the title match. "Any money raised in Great Falls or Shelby for the Dempsey payment was not drawn from the resources of the bank or from my personal funds," Stanton said in a statement. "I gave such personal assistance as I could to the promoters to meet the crisis on June 15th (when the second $100,000 was due) but my connection with the bout was not in any way associated with the closing of the Stanton bank."

County Visitors Pledge Support of Free Library

Delegation From Pittsylvania Headed by Mayor and Councilmen Have Conference With Miss Schoolfield—Materialization of Plan Promised.

Pittsylvania county moved a step nearer to winning a free library yesterday evening when a committee of representative people of the county had an interview with Miss Bland Schoolfield, who recently proffered the county a concrete proposition which probably will be made as soon as a library expert has had an opportunity of going to Chatham and studying the county's needs. Moral and financial support were assured by the county visitors although they were unable to pledge any definite amount at yesterday's meeting. Mayor Edwin S. Reid, of Chatham accompanied the visitors to Danville and introduced different members of the Chatham council to Miss Schoolfield and to representatives of all of the county civic organizations. These included the United Daughters of the Confederacy, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Garden club, the Sans Souci club, the W. C. T. U. and the Pittsylvania Library association. Miss Watson, a state representative, also was present at the meeting and offered the benefit of her views to the library proposition. The purpose of the visit was to ask Miss Schoolfield if she would consider the establishment of a free library in Pittsylvania county and if so under what conditions. It was brought out at the meeting that the ultimate plan of the Danville project had it developed, would have been to extend it to Pittsylvania so as to bring good literature within the scope of men and women in the rural areas. The visiting committee declared that it could vouch for the financial living up to its part of a financial agreement but that it would not be possible for the county at this time to pledge itself for maintenance of the library over a long term of years. After talking over the matter, it was decided that a library expert should survey the county's needs and draw up some estimate as to the financial obligation which would be required in operating the library. Miss Schoolfield told the committee finally that she would make every effort to meet the requirements as they were unfolded. The discussions developed the fact that Chatham already has a lot on which a library could be erected and that the county has a nucleus of 1,000 books for the proposed institution. Of particular interest was the suggestion by which the library would operate, the Hagerstown library in Maryland being revealed as a model library for a rural town. In Hagerstown is a library controlled by a central organization. Book wagons are maintained and people living in the surrounding parts have literature delivered at their door. Such a plan would be undertaken in Pittsylvania county where the county library proposition to succeed. Chatham is situated in the center of the county which has a population of 10,000. Danville of 50,000 there being 1,000 square miles of territory. Pittsylvania being the largest county in the state. The committee on leaving the conference with Miss Schoolfield expressed the belief that the opportunity for Pittsylvania to secure a free library was an excellent one and the visitors did not disguise the expressed belief that the county would be able to make an attractive proposition.

John Stone Sentenced To Serve Thirty Years For Killing Georges Frame
(Special to The Bee.)
MARTINSVILLE, Va., July 10.—Declaring that the murder had been committed clearly while the defendant was under the influence of liquor, Judge Turner yesterday sentenced John Stone to serve 30 years in the penitentiary for having killed Georges Frame, a police officer of Bassett, Va., where the homicide took place last March 15th. Stone's case was called yesterday and the defendant elected to be tried by the court in preference to a jury. The evidence was presented through the morning and early afternoon. Judge Clement losing no time in summing up the case and imposing a sentence. It is unlikely that any appeal will be taken from it.

Stone who escaped immediately after the shooting of the officer, was captured the following Tuesday in the highlands of Patrick, while it is alleged he was making his way to West Virginia. Lee Moran and his two sons having heard of the murder through reading accounts of it in a newspaper identified him and after giving the fugitive some water followed him and took him into custody without trouble on a country road. The tragedy took place in Bassett on a Sunday morning. Stone was intoxicated and in company with Arthur Brown at the time on the street when Frame in an automobile saw his condition and driving up to near where he was alighted from the car and approached him. It was then, according to the testimony of four or five eye witnesses that Stone drew a revolver and shot the officer twice when he was but five paces away. Frame died within five minutes and Stone profiting by the immediate excitement of the shooting made off. The testimony of State witnesses was to the effect that Frame had no weapon in his hand when he approached Stone and that after he had died the officers revolver was found in his holster strapped to his side.

President's Party at Juneau Today

Not Shots by U. S. Henderson's Gun at Ice Barrier to Be One of the Thrills as Ship Nears Port

(By The Associated Press)
ABOARD THE U. S. S. HENDERSON WITH PRESIDENT HARDING. July 10.—The spectacle of crashing ice was planned to thrill President Harding and his party as the Henderson approached Juneau, the capital of Alaska this morning. Five-inch shells fired from a navy gun on the Henderson were to shatter the ice walls pushed out into the bay 35 miles south of Juneau by a glacier, sending glittering and crashing masses tumbling into the water.

The programme of the president's tour of the nation's northernmost territory permitted 24 hours at Juneau, arriving at 10 a. m., and departing tomorrow for Seward on a three day voyage across the Gulf of Alaska to the Northern end of the Pacific ocean.

The president was to be welcomed to Juneau by Governor Scott T. Bone, of the territory, receive a committee headed by the mayor of Juneau and escorted by the American Legion and a detachment of regular troops to the governor's mansion. The plans include a greeting to the president and Mrs. Harding by children in white dresses, scattering flowers in the street as the procession passes.

Late News Bulletins

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, July 10.—The Atlantic Coast Line Railway has authorized expenditures of $26,000,000 for cars, locomotives and other improvements.

(By The Associated Press)
PRAGUE, July 10.—Russians in Prague and various other centers where the refugees from the bolshevik regime are gathered in large numbers, have discovered that the Soviet government victimized them cleverly by loading them down with alleged exorbitant money, which really was printed by the bolsheviks.

Russians outside of Russia, and many other people, are now being informed about currency, believed for a long time that the Russian money of the old regime was much more valuable than bolshevik paper money, and would some day be redeemed. Consequently they were anxious to demand in European money exchanges for the old-time Russian money, and it brought better prices than red rubles.

As the bolshevik government had a large quantity of the water-marked paper used in the old money, and had the plates for bills of large denominations, it started its money presses and supplied the demand for czarist bills. They continued this practice until last January, when the water-marked paper supply was exhausted.

Big Attendance Expected At Big Fight Thursday

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, July 10.—A line of nearly 1,000 fight fans was on hand today at Madison Square Garden when the ticket sale for the Jess Willard-Louis Firpo match was resumed with indications that Promoter Tex Rickard's feat of selling a record crowd would be fulfilled when the show begins at Boyles Thirty Acres Thursday night. On the basis of the increasing demand for reservations during the last few days Rickard predicted the attendance record would eclipse the 90,000 figure set at the Dempsey-Carpentier bout two years ago.

Bootlegging Growing Worse Along South Atlantic Coast Says Enquirer

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, July 10.—Run running along the South Atlantic seaboard has assumed such tremendous proportions that the inhabitants of poverty stricken Little India have become rich and most overnight and the section has become known as "bootleggers paradise," the Chicago Daily News says today in a copyrighted article describing conditions along the Florida coast. In the Bahamas, from the city of Nassau alone, the article says, official clearings of liquor bound for the United States increased from 37,821 gallons in 1917 to 1,340,443 gallons in 1932. The writer accompanied by a bootlegger named "Terry" as guide told of visiting the rum fleet talking with the runners helping transport the liquor and distributing it in the United States.

Girl Injured Ten Years Ago Brings Suit To Recover $75,000 From Mills

Suit was instituted in the Circuit court at Chatham today by Louise Tugman, 13-year-old daughter of Mrs. Stella Tugman, of Dan River Cotton Mill, Inc., for the recovery of $75,000. The suit which is brought by Attorney A. M. Aiken is an unusual one in many particulars. It is charged that the complainant when three years of age fell into a hole which had been dug on Macdon Avenue for a fence post. The charge is made that the post hole was not protected and that the child just was to walk fell in and sustained injuries to her head and spinal cord of a permanent nature. Ten years elapsed before the mother brought suit for the period of grace allowed by law for the institution of damage suits. A peculiar phase of the case is that the complainant will not be able to testify, it being claimed that her mental condition is such that she cannot talk properly. Even though she were normal, it is unlikely that she would be able to remember the details of the accident which happened when she was but three years of age. The girl is suing through her next best friend, her mother, Mrs. Stella Tugman. The case will be tried in the Chatham court. The grounds of defense will be filed later.

English Steel Workers Haven't Struck For Years

Over 100,000 Union Men Have Enjoyed Long Term of Industrial Peace—No Lockouts Either—Have 8-Hour Day.

BY MILTON BRONNER
(Special to The Bee.)
LONDON, July 10.—Over in Swinton street housed in a big five-story brick building are the offices of the Iron and Steel Trades Confederation—the one big union of the men engaged in the steel and iron trade in Great Britain.

Over 100,000 men belong to the union. And I couldn't find a hate-spot in the whole place.

To an American used to hearing American trade union leaders expounding their distrust or suspicion of many big American employers, it came almost as a miracle. It seemed too good to be true.

There were trade union leaders who spoke with enthusiasm of their relations with the bosses. And it's no wonder—35 years without strikes and without lockouts.

A 35-year long habit of meeting around a table and discussing grievances or never even talking strike or lockout until all other methods have failed. And they haven't failed.

One of the things that has made for peace has been that the employers have been fair to the men and the men have been fair to the employers.

One Union.

One of the main difficulties was the large number of unions catering for the industry. So among the men there began a campaign to amalgamate the big unions into one unit bigger, covering the entire industry. This was finally and fully accomplished in 1916.

As a general rule matters of dispute arising now between individual employers and their men are dealt with directly by the permanent local officials of the union and the employer.

If no agreement is reached a neutral committee, consisting of two employers and two men, make the differences, take up the question.

This committee has the assistance of an official from each side. Following agreement the matter is referred to a conference between the employer's association and the big union. And if this doesn't settle it the minister of labor names an arbitration board.

The members of the board are drawn from panels consisting of equal numbers of workmen and employers in other industries. But there have been very few disputes that have gone that far. And in every case both sides have locally accepted the verdict rendered.

Tonnage Counts.

The greater part of the British steel industry has the wages regulated by sliding scales on selling prices. The men are mainly paid by tonnage, but in some instances by piecework.

A direct interest in production and it is claimed the steel mills of Britain have far less need for supervisors and foremen than in America.

RAINBOW BOYS REUNITE WITHOUT "BEST PAL"

RUTH BUSH WEBER

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 10.—On the eve of a reunion of the Rainbow Division here there comes to light one of its tragedies.

Members long had planned to make Ruth Bush, the "singing girl of the trenches," their honored guest at the rally.

Recently they heard of her death, caused by the gas attack through which she went five years ago.

Ruth Bush, as she was known to thousands of American doughboys, was Mrs. Ruth Charlotte Bush. She passed away here the other day in the midst of preparations by the Rainbow Division Veterans' Association for their reunion, July 13-15.

Veterans were her palbearers and regulars from Fort Benjamin Harrison her guard of honor.

Ruth Bush was 21 when she went to war. Her diary tells how she sang before 21 of the 26 American combat divisions, most of the time within range of the German guns. Stories of her bravery are told by hundreds who were across.

To the Rainbow Division she was "their breath of heaven." She knew the boys got tired of seeing uniforms and longed for the sight of the American girl as she appeared at home. And so she would carry a dainty white dress from place to place. There were no dressing rooms. For a place to change from uniform to dress she'd order her tin-derbied, mud-stained admirers to form a square and hold up four blankets.

The gas attack wasn't much at the time. She came home after the war and was one of the organizers of the American Women's Overseas League. But pulmonary trouble developed. She went to California. It didn't help and she came home not long ago and died. It was not generally known until her death that Ruth Bush was Mrs. Weber. The couple met while Weber was a student at Purdue University. They saw each other now and then in France, where he served as a lieutenant. Last February they were married in California.

And so the Rainbow Division will reunite this July without the one member the doughboys longed and hoped to see at their reunion. It is to show her their appreciation for all she did and suffered. But they won't be able to.

Council Session At 8 P. M. Tonight

The city council will meet at eight o'clock tonight in monthly session with only two reports from the three committees to be heard. The session is not expected to be an extended one. With two members of the Welfare committee, Messrs. L. B. Conway and George P. Geoghegan, Jr., out of the city, there will be no report presented. There will be a report from the finance committee.

E. F. Carter, the only member of the Welfare committee in the city, said yesterday that he did not intend to renew his term for some time.

It is known however, that the city health officer has made further representations on the subject in a report to the committee urging that the vital matter be disposed of as soon as practicable.

It is expected that at tonight's meeting Judge Withers' certified report on the recent bond election will be presented to the council. It is understood that the finance committee will in its report recommend that City Attorney Aiken be requested to institute mandamus proceedings in order to place the legal question of the bond issue election's validity before the Supreme court. It is possible that members of the Supreme court recognizing the urgency so far as Danville is concerned in a prompt determination of the question will consent to taking up the Danville case in September sitting giving it precedence over other cases on the Supreme court docket. As the school board has retained council already to carry the case up, both Messrs. Aiken and M. K. Harris will represent the city.

German Duel Stays In "Code of Honor"

BERLIN, July 10.—Despite contrary reports, duelling continues a part of the "honor code" in the Reichswehr. Officially it is not compulsory, but the unwritten code among officers still requires it as a means of settling disputes.

The Reichswehr ministerium says no duelling has been reported since its existence.

Legatees In Hughes Will Soon To Be Paid Money Bequeathed To Them

It became known today that steps are being taken to pay some of the legatees left by the late John E. Hughes, tobacco dealer whose estate was valued at slightly under three million dollars. While the definite date for the payment of these legatees has not been set it would not be surprising were definite action to be taken within the next week.

The report is interesting in connection with the report that several improvements are planned at the General hospital which was left a quarter of a million dollars under the will. Among the improvements said to be planned is a new operating theater.

While the payment of the numerous legatees now appears to be with in sight, this does not mean that the bequeathed suit to break the will will be abandoned. One of the members of counsel associated to represent the heirs-at-law said today that while no positive action in this matter has yet been taken it is intended to test the will. The attorney said that institution of the suit had been delayed because of a desire to avoid long litigation during the hot summer months. It was intimated that the suit would be filed in September.

Another interesting fact revealed today when enquiries were made relative to the Hughes will was that Mrs. Fannie Hughes Pruden, sister of the deceased, has accepted the legacy made her by her brother, this being a building and a lot in Chase City.

The legatees provided in the will were $10,000 to A. C. Hughes, brother; W. T. Hughes, brother; $10,000 to Mrs. Fannie Hughes, sister; $10,000 to Mrs. Fannie Hughes Pruden, sister, property at Chase City.

To his nieces and nephews he left sums as follows: Elizabeth Ford $500; Miss Gay Slater $500; Robert $100; John Hughes Roberts, $25,000; Mary Spotswood Roberts, $5,000; Eleanor Lewis Roberts, $5,000; and Janice Clark Roberts, $5,000.

To George S. Hughes he left $2,500; Miss Gay Slater $100 and Sue Thompson $100. The deceased left $250,000 to the Danville General hospital "which together with the property already owned by it, I hope will enable this institution to erect a new hospital suitable and adequate to the needs of this community."

The rest of the estate was left for the establishment of an orphanage for the white children of Virginia and North Carolina for which a charter has already been filed by the state corporation commission.

Good Morning Judge!

Charged with engaging in a fight yesterday morning in the mayor's office, Police Detective J. N. Campbell and H. T. Williams, a local attorney, were given hearings this morning. As the result Williams was fined six dollars and costs. The charge against Campbell was dismissed. At the outset Williams stated that he would submit Campbell's claim that he would not and the cases were gone into. The evidence taken was brief, being in substance the facts which were chronicled yesterday.

The case over which the argument started yesterday was also dismissed this morning. It was one in which Will Moore was charged with store-breaking. Campbell sought to have the case continued and Williams was trying to have it heard then, this resulting in passage of words which caused Campbell to invite Williams out of the courtroom in the presence of officers following further passage of words, Williams is alleged to have struck the first blow, whereupon the fight resulted.

A pint bottle of whisky proved very costly to Jim Bobbitt. He was fined $100 and sentenced to serve six months in jail. It was his second offense. An appeal was noted. Bobbitt being released on $500 bond.

F. L. Festubert appealed from a fine of $50 and costs and a thirty day jail sentence on a charge of having three gallons of liquor in his house.

Hugh Jones, charged with breaking into his father's store on Valley Hill was turned over to his parents after a lecture by the mayor with a warning that should he give further trouble he would have to serve a term. The boy confessed to entering the place and taking a small quantity of goods.

Jack Shackelford fined six dollars and costs for creating a disturbance.

J. D. Henry fined $10 and costs for not having proper lights on his machine.

W. J. CALLAHAN DIED YESTERDAY IN RICHMOND

Mr. Callahan, who was about 56 years of age, had been in business with the Nelson Brothers, at Nelson, for the past twenty years. He was well-known in Danville, having lived here when a young man. He was quite successful in business and active in his church. He was a member of the Juniors and Woodmen of the World. He leaves a wife and 10 children, one brother, G. W. Callahan, of Danville; three sisters, Mrs. I. B. Mangum and Mrs. W. L. Goad, of Danville, and Mrs. J. W. Thomas, of Henderson, N. C.

NEW YORK COTTON:
(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, July 10.—The cotton market opened barely steady at a decline of 1 to 1 1/2 points under overnight selling orders from the South and scattering pressure encouraged by reports of continued good weather in the South and further complaints of a poor business in cotton goods. The later cables from Liverpool were relatively firm. July soon rallied from 26.66 to 26.85 and later months recovered most of their opening losses. Cotton futures opened barely steady.

S. S. Leviathan Arrives Overseas

Escaped Convicts Are Arrested Here

Two brothers, Deaton and Gaston Henry Robinson, are in jail, being held as fugitives from justice from South Carolina and Georgia, where they are alleged to be wanted as escaped convicts. Gaston Robinson is said to have escaped prison after serving three days of a ten-year term for housebreaking at Tecoy, Georgia. Since his escape many months ago, he has been caught again in South Carolina towns and was sentenced in one instance to two and one-half years and also escaped after a short period. He gave the name of H. O. Brown. Little is known of Deaton Robinson, better known as "Dit". He is wanted in Carnesville, Ga.

The two fugitives have been staying on a farm in Pittsylvania county. They have been keeping close at home. In fact the cause of their being held on the fugitive charge was the result of their carelessness in evading the police.

Last Saturday Gaston was arrested by Officer L. O. Belton on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. He as Brown but finally admitted his right name. It was then ascertained that he had a brother in the county. The officers learned that Deaton came to town and failed to come up to see about his brother. He saw friends and got them to look after his brother. This shyness of the police indicated a tendency to evade the officers, they thought. Police Detectives J. N. Campbell and J. C. Lewis got busy and finally worked up the case against the two men. Deaton Robinson was taken in custody on Monday.

The men seemed to have led a career of crime, according to their own statements, the police say. Gaston admits several robberies after his escape from the Georgia penitentiary.

The two men will be held pending arrival of proper authorities to take them in custody.

Open Sweepstake Tournament For Local Golfers

The directors of the Danville Golf Club have decided on an open sweepstake tournament to be held at the Stokesdale links on Saturday week. Considerable interest is already manifested in the forthcoming event and it is certain that most of the playing members will take part with a good chance of success.

It has been decided that each player shall be given a handicap determined by past prowess.

STATE FARM PLANNED FOR MISDEMEANOR PRISONERS
(Special to The Bee.)

RICHMOND, Va., July 10.—The tentative draft of a bill to establish a state farm for persons serving jail sentences for misdemeanors is now being considered by State Welfare Commissioner Bane, who believes that such a bill would relieve the economic loss incurred by the state by the idleness/enforced under the present system of jail commitments. In the more than 200 city and county jails in Virginia, no means of work is provided under the present system.

Jail commitments in this state last year numbered 31,424, with a cost to the state of $78,281 for board, clothing and medical attention, while not one cent was earned by the prisoners, who, under the present law, have no alternative from enforced idleness.

Discharges 800 Passengers in France and Continues to England—Warrants for Crew.

(By The Associated Press)
CHERBOURG, France, July 10.—The giant Leviathan arrived here today on her first trans-Atlantic voyage as a passenger ship under the American flag. She landed 800 of her passengers here and continued on to Southampton.

LARGE PART OF CREW TO BE ARRESTED
(By The Associated Press)
LONDON, July 10.—The expected arrival of the Leviathan at Southampton late today is attracting interest far beyond shipping circles. The great liner's pre-war antecedents, her disputed claims to the world record tonnage and her cargo of reported millionaires on the present voyage have all been widely discussed here, while the reported impending arrest of a large proportion of her crew for desertion has also augmented public curiosity. Four Scotland Yard detectives left for Southampton yesterday with about 200 warrants to be served on men accused of deserting British ships when attracted by higher wages offered in the United States.

Smaller Crops Than Last Year

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Smaller crops than last year were indicated in the July forecasts of the Department of Agriculture, issued today for wheat, corn, rice, white and sweet potatoes, rice, hay, apples and peaches. A tobacco crop 100,000,000 pounds larger than last year's and a large production of oats, barley and flax seed were indicated.

This year's corn crop, although growing on a slightly larger acreage than was planted last year, will be some 14,000,000 bushels smaller than the 1922 crop, owing to a poorer condition on July 1 than a year ago. Production this year was forecast at 2,877,000,000 bushels.

Wheat showed a slight improvement over a month ago but spring wheat showed a deterioration of 7.8 points in the month. The combined production forecast, however, is 4,000,000 bushels larger than the 1922 crop, owing to a poorer condition on July 1 than a year ago. Production this year was forecast at 2,877,000,000 bushels.

This year's potato crop probably will be 69,000,000 bushels less than last year's. The production forecast of 18,000,000 bushels, as forecast, would make it the largest crop in ten years.

A tobacco crop of 1,425,000,000 pounds as forecast for this year would make it the fourth largest ever grown, while a flax seed production of 18,000,000 bushels, as forecast, would make it the largest crop in ten years.

SENATOR CAPPER TO GIVE BIG PARTY—EVERYTHING FREE

BY HARRY B. HUNT
(Special to The Bee.)

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, the rank, drawing leader of the farm bloc, is going to have a birthday party out at his home town in Topeka, July 14, when he will have rounded out 58 years.

Capper has rented the highest amusement park in town and has given a blanket invitation to every boy and girl in the state to come and have a good time. The whole show will be "on" him. Everything will be free, including lots of lemonade, ice cream and popcorn.

The fact that he must come up for re-election next year has no connection with the party. It's simply Capper's way of having a good time himself by giving the kids of his state a jollification.

Of course, if any of their parents want to cast their ballots for him next year they may have that privilege.

If you're going to visit Washington, keep your eye peeled while you're sight-seeing about town in the afternoon for a big, high Pierce-Arrow—one of the models of 1915 or thereabouts that stands strikingly higher than the models of recent years.

If you spot such a car, take a good look at the man sitting in the front seat beside the chauffeur.

Chances are about nine to one that it'll be Woodrow Wilson, former president, out for an airing.

Every afternoon now, while the weather is fine, Wilson goes for a drive. Instead of occupying the rear seat with Mrs. Wilson, as he does in the winter when a limousine is used, he sits up front with the driver. On coolish afternoons he wears a return cap and a cape that drapes about his shoulders. His stiff straw hat has a thick, narrow brim and high crown, suggesting the vintage of two or three years ago.

Wilson has taken on weight. His face is fuller, but there is a suggestion of softness, even flabbiness to his flesh that contrasts with the firm, well-knit strength evidenced in the old days. He is more bellow. His smile is less frequent, too, and as he passes one seems to sense something of sadness, even of dejection and surrender to the physical handicap against which he fought spiritedly for the first three years following his breakdown. He gives an impression of a noticeable decline in stamina and spirit in the past six months.

STRANGE WOMAN IS A BARONESS

(By Chicago Tribune Service.)

NEW YORK, July 9.—A woman, who on her journey to America came to be known as "The strange woman of the second cabin," spent last week in the crowded detention quarters of Ellis Island, while immigration officials were determining if she came to the United States in violation of the contract labor law. Against the background of lowly immigrants from many lands she stood out as one apart. Her gentle breeding, education and refined manners could not be mistaken. The authorities broke through their usual red-tape and finally learned that she was the Baroness Mary Lillie Steinheil of Russia, fleeing from bolshevik regime.

The baroness was released late Saturday in custody of a representative of the Y W C A, and at the home of a charity worker told the story of her vicissitudes since the revolutions in 1917.

"I've been in places far, far worse than Ellis Island," she said. And a vivid memory conjured up the terrors of confinement in a prison in a Kiev, the sentence of death passed on her by the Reds. Her husband faced a firing squad at Kronstadt and she escaped, but bribery of keepers and fled to the Black Sea, leaving to the Soviets huge estates held by her family through centuries.

"In Constantinople," she continued, "I worked as a barmaid and earned enough that way and as an interpreter for officers and diplomats to take me to Switzerland and then bring me here."

THE PASSING OF BABE RUTH

By JAMES CRUSINBURY
(By Chicago Tribune Service.)

NEW YORK, July 9.—During the season of 1921 "Babe" Ruth established himself as the heaviest hitter in the history of baseball by knocking fifty nine home runs. Because of his ability to sock the ball out of the lot he became by far the greatest drawing card the game ever had, and because of his drawing power he became the highest salaried ball player of all time.

"Babe" Ruth this year is in better condition than he was two years ago. He can hit a ball just hard and just as far as ever, and yet with the season practically half finished he has little more than one fourth the number of homers that he hit in 1921.

Because of this unfortunate condition of affairs there is a double meaning in the heading of this article. "Babe" isn't hitting home runs for the simple reason that opposing pitchers are passing him purposely thus cutting down his chances to hit the ball.

If "Babe" falls away below his record of fifty nine the fans will lose part of their interest in him. He will not be the great hitter of two years ago in their estimation. He will lose portion of his drawing power. If he loses part of his drawing power does it not follow that in time he may lose his power to command his present big salary?

The fans pay to see "Babe" hit the ball. If "Babe" doesn't hit as he once did they think he's going bad. But Babe can't hit the ball when the pitchers throw it out of his reach.

There is every reason to believe that "Babe" would hit as many home runs now as he did two years ago if the pitchers would give him the same chance to hit it that they did during that season.

There is no way to stop the intentional base on balls. And, in fact, to keep the game absolutely honest the same situation. Rival managers are out to win. They wouldn't be honest if they let "Babe" hit the ball when in their judgment such tactics would hinder their chances to win. It would never do for them to allow "Babe" to hit simply to preserve his power to draw in the money at the gate.

It's a deplorable situation, with no relief in sight, and may mean that the passing of "Babe" Ruth may develop into a drama entitled the "passing of 'Babe' Ruth."

Reparations to Be Explained by Premier Baldwin

(By The Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 9.—Prime Minister Baldwin's announcement in the House of Commons this afternoon that it might be possible for the government to make a statement on reparations Thursday eased British public opinion, which has been manifestly increased impatience and concern over the failure of the cabinet to commit itself to a definite policy.

It is anticipated that the premier's statement will furnish Parliament and the public with a clear-cut, comprehensive analysis of the whole subject. This may afford the opposition groups in the House opportunity for open debate, and it is considered likely that before the week is out the Ruhr controversy will have entered a new and broader phase.

Whether this will involve separate action by Great Britain in dealing with Germany, no one in authority would say. The whole subject of reparations and Britain's probable course is enveloped in thick mists of diplomatic reticence, word apparently having been given to the Foreign Secretary Curzon that neither France nor the public shall have any intimation as to what the government will do. The opinion prevails in official circles that the playing for time, believing that Germany will capitulate before England can take independent action. France, according to these circles, is convinced that Germany is on the verge of collapse economically and that with her commercial disintegration the passive resistance, upon the cessation of which France has been so insistent, will automatically disappear.

Great Britain, however, feels that Germany, though sorely pressed by France, still has an abundant reserve of vitality and that she will ultimately weather the present storm.

Whatever turn the situation takes this week it is considered likely that England will renew her suggestion for the appointment of an international commission of experts to examine into Germany's resources and determine her capacity to pay. It is regarded as not improbable that the committee of experts appointed last year, of which J. P. Morgan was a member, may be asked to serve again.

ALABAMA MAY ABOLISH CONVICT LEASING SYSTEM

(By Chicago Tribune Service.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 9.—One of the results of the recent investigation of alleged outrages in Florida prison camps will be to make the subject of the leasing to Alabama convicts one of the most complex matters to come before the Alabama legislature when that body convenes tomorrow, for its summer sessions, according to the opinion expressed by members in advance of the meeting.

Inspired by the investigations and their result in Florida, citizens of Alabama started an inquiry into conditions in this state and several groups now are demanding that the present lease system be abolished at its January session extended the leasing system until December, 1924.

Governor Brandon has expressed himself in defense of the existing system, declaring the state should make no changes until some other employment might be arranged, enabling the state to continue them at work without loss.

The league of women voters of Alabama, who also have the aid of various legislators and many private citizens have declared their intention of endeavoring to have the legislature repeal the extension measure at the coming session. Alleged insanity conditions, inhuman treatment, negligence of moral supervision and bad conditions in general are charged by those opposing the continuation of the leasing system.

SHIPPING TRADE IS FALLING OFF

(By Chicago Tribune Service.)

WASHINGTON, July 9.—A steady decline in the part played by American ships in American trade is indicated by figures made public today by the National Merchant Marine Association based on records of the Department of Commerce. Total imports and exports carried by American foreign trade as compared with 1920. American ships carried 26.45 per cent of imports during April and 37.45 per cent of exports. In March these figures were 28.42 and 37.70 per cent. For the year 1920, 42.02 per cent of the imports brought into the United States were carried in American ships while 43.65 per cent of the exports leaving the United States went in American vessels.

SKUNK FOR ONCE OUT-PERFUMED

(By Chicago Tribune Service.)

CHICAGO, July 9.—The American mephitine musteloid carnivores, more commonly known as the more or less pungent skunk, can stand for almost anything, but he balks and quits the game when put up against some of the screeching perfume used by the girls of today.

This has been proven by three camp girls, the survivors of a band of nine that went for an outing on the Des Plaines river. Thunderstorms, mosquitoes, chiggers, grass snakes and other incidents of camp life caused six of the group to weaken and flee back to the city, but three sturdy ones decided to stick. "We came for two weeks and we intend to stay," they declared.

Last night that dirty skunk came snooping around our camp. Did you ever meet a skunk close up? Well, you'll understand. Details are superfluous. But we decided not to let an old skunk drive us out, so we went out with our first aid kits and found a bottle of awful perfume that a boy had given one of our party. We sprayed it all around and sure enough that stinking old skunk went right away. I guess he was jealous."

CROP INSURANCE IS NOW FEASIBLE

WASHINGTON, July 9.—General crop insurance is feasible according to officials of the Department of Agriculture who have been studying the question with a view of submitting their views to a special committee of the Senate. Hearings are to be resumed before the committee in December.

"Crop insurance, it is believed, should cover actual damage sustained, but not theoretical losses resulting from failure to reap expected profits. Adherence to this rule would greatly lessen the difficulty of establishing a workable system, it is held," says a statement issued by the Department.

"Adequate insurance ought to cover all the principal hazards. Any policy that left particular hazards uncovered might leave the insured person worse off, since if he lost a crop by a hazard for which no provision had been made his loss would be increased by the sum he had paid in premiums. In the opinion of Department officials, a farmer ought to be able to get all necessary coverage on a single policy, giving protection against damage from deficient or excessive moisture, plant pests, storms and frost, hail and hot winds, and from all other dangers. They hold, in fact, that the policy should cover damage from any cause, except the negligence of the farmer, when the damage is so severe as to bring the crop yield materially below the investment in the crop."

Paris plans to spend $750,000 this year in providing public baths.

NEGRO CONVICT SLAIN IN FIGHT

NEW YORK, July 9.—If the United States government would take a firm stand against Alabama mobs who are seeking to prevent appointment of a negro staff at the Tuskegee Veterans' hospital, the situation existing there could be settled immediately. James Weldon Johnson, secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said here tonight.

SETTLE THE ALMSHOUSE QUESTION

It seems now that the question of providing a new almshouse for the indigent poor of the city will not be dealt with at tonight's council meeting and that a delay of at least another month will be noted before any steps are taken to remedy a condition which is admitted by the city health officer to be bad and which opinion is shared by women of the community who have been striving to bring about some improvement, also city ministers who presented startling facts to the council committee several months ago. The further delay would not be objectionable were there any degree of assurance that this vital matter is to be disposed of in the near future.
There is no such assurance at the present time with the welfare committee reported to be divided on the issue and with no definite plan in view of coping with a reproach to the community as long as present conditions prevail. Conditions today are probably worse than those prevailing at the time the investigation was made when photographs of matterial defects were taken and submitted to the council, for the almshouse has more inmates than at the time and the task of dealing with what should be properly classed as hospitalization cases, has increased.
Reasons for the failure to present the almshouse plan tonight is due to the absence from the city of a majority of the welfare committee and a rather natural recommendation rather natural disinclination of the city, remaining member to proceed alone with making recommendations without first discussing them with the other two members. The most important thing just now is to determine definitely the fate of the city farm and to decide whether or not it is to be sold in order that the almshouse site question can be cleared up.
One thing is fairly certain and that is that continued delay in carrying out what was generally understood to be the determination to provide proper quarters for the poor will result in a second visitation by the ministry if not expostulating, with very urgent appeals that something be done.

FRANCE RATIFIES THE TREATIES

Ratification by the French Chamber of Deputies yesterday of the treaties enacted at the Washington conference when the first steps were taken looking to naval disarmament is a hopeful sign. There had been some doubt if France would concur and as months elapsed and nothing was done a feeling of pessimism had set in. The action by the lower chamber remains to be ratified by the Senate but favorable action is not assured. Affirmative action by the Chamber at a time when the French government is deeply engrossed in its troubles within the Ruhr area is significant and points to a realization on the part of the government the futurity of further delay.
The complexion of world politics has greatly changed since Secretary of State started the world with his frank declaration of American purpose in restricting naval armaments and curbing the secret race for naval supremacy. There is also a grave question of whether the treaties, five in all, the principal agreements being curtailment of warship building programs and the understanding that many ships should be dismantled—really serve the purpose for which they were intended. The ships to be scrapped were largely of a type which are growing obsolete as result of the experience of naval warfare during the war of 1914-1918. None of the treaties provided for aerial programs and today we see both France and Britain engaged in precisely the same kind of race for supremacy which for years held sway in naval circles among the major powers. Whether the Washington disarmament treaty relating to battleship curtailment will really sterilize the seeds of war is doubtful with competition in another deadly form already growing apace.

THE ART OF COMMUTING.

How many miles a day do you travel, and to and from work? How many miles a year? Figure it up. It may surprise you. But would you trade places with John C. Emmons? He lives on a Maine farm and rides by train 96 miles every morning, to work in Boston, then 96 miles home again every night. To accomplish this he has to leave home at 5:20 in the morning. Reaches his Boston office at 9:45. Leaves the office at 3:55 in the afternoon. Gets home at 7:45.
In all, Emmons spends over eight hours daily, getting to and from work. His is an exceptional case. But the average city inhabitant devotes at least an hour to traveling back and forth between office and home. Mr.
Emmons has to be in Boston daily.
For Boston is headquarters of three corporations of which he's treasurer.
He's willing to travel 192 miles a day,
devoting over eight hours to the trip,
in order to live in his boyhood home and sleep nightly in the room where he was born. A lure more powerful than steel going to the magnet, is home. That's why it's next to impossible to readjust the map of Europe amicably. For home isn't home when an invader bosses it.

Another phenomenal commuter is Joseph C. Beck, 62, of Goshen, Ind.
For 36 years he has been a railway mail clerk on the New York Central, always on the same run between Chicago and Cleveland. Soon to retire on pension, Beck reminisces gets busy with a pencil and estimates that in the 36 years he has traveled close to three million miles on his mail run. How would you like to have the same distance, year in and year out, repeatedly over the same territory? And still some of us think our work is monotonous.

Twenty or thirty years ago the person who planned a long railroad trip was the talk of the neighborhood.
Now he shows up missing, after an absence of a few weeks, tells how many thousands miles he covered—and his listeners yawn.

HOLLYWOOD'S HOMELESS DERELICTS.

(Roanoke Times.)
It is stated that through the efforts of Will Hays, the sum of $120,000 has been donated to the Hollywood Y. W.
C. A. by motion picture producers.
The Hollywood Y. W. C. A. has a busy time taking care of the hundreds of girls who flock to Los Angeles convinced that their faces and figures will win fame and fortune for them on the silver screen. Only a very small percentage of the girls who knock at the doors of Hollywood's studios succeed in getting an engagement. The rest are turned away and their plight is truly desperate, for most of them come on to Los Angeles so sure of their ability to get on in the movies, that they don't bring along money to take them home again in case they fail to get an engagement. On account of this state of affairs the Hollywood Y. W. C. A. has found the demands on its good offices in the last year more than it could well meet. The gift of the movie magnates will help the association meet the situation. It is estimated that a hundred girls a week
apply at the Y for help to tide them over until they can get into communication with relatives or friends back east.

DRAKES BRANCH, July 10.
(Grapevine Wireless.)—Come on, children, gather around the knee and listen to the grandpa's tale of Hank the Village Barber.
His one aim in life was to become a barber and he did it.
Hank Barber. But even those who are Musically Inclined must eat, so Perforce Hank was reduced to the Dire necessity of Scrapping chins for a living.
Hank Barber had a plastic bow over the Gut strings. In other words Hank was the Village Barber. And let it be known here that he was a Darn good one too, so far as barbers go.
Hank Barber had a little shop which consisted of two rooms. One the Barber Shop and the other his Study.
Here between shaves he would run the scales the run of their life, and he used many pounds of resin assiduously.

In the evenings he would tuck his beloved fiddle—which cost exactly two bucks, six bits, from a large and prosperous mail order Joint—under his chin, and away for dear life, and Art. He thought far more of his Fiddle than he did of his Spouse, and Offspring, of which latter he had Six,
and would speak Crossly to his Mate
when she failed to keep the Brood quiet, while he was "Wasseling with Tempos and Harmony."

Hank finally became proficient enough in his chosen Avocation to play in the Village Orchestra, which same consisted of himself, an old soldier, who walked the drums, and Miss Frump, who Ticked the ivories, with more, or less success—
generally less it must be admitted.

Any and all Festive Occasions were graced by the orchestra, and Hank as leader, became quite a Notable around the Diggins.
Everyone told him what a Wonderful amount of Feeling he put into his work. But they neglected to tell him how little he took out.
Deep in his heart, Hank had long had a secret ambition. This Won-derous Ambition took sudden definite form when a Traveling Salesman, in a Spirit of Jest told Hank that he was wasting precious time away out there in the Sticks. The T. S. also slipped the old stuff to Hank that there was always Fame, and Fortune waiting for the man who could Cut the Mustard in the Big City.

So one morning bright and Early,
about 5:30, to be right, Hank boarded the Battle and sailed himself to the Big Town, amid the cheers of the Populace, and the tears of his Brood.
For weary Weeks Hank tried to get Placed in the affairs Musical in the City but gradually it dawned upon him that the city was not the place for gut strings in the Real orchestra were Violinists, not Fiddlers.

Convinced that he had been Guiled
by a city Slicker into taking a Fool's Errand, Hank sold the Fiddle for six bits, and rode home on a Freight.
He happily sold the fiddle to the old Broad-winner—the barber shop, and as he sadly but deftly honed up
the old Chive again, he philosophized that it might have been worse.

SPECULATION ON BOSTON BRAVES AND THE GIANTS

(By Chicago Tribune Service.)
BOSTON, Mass., July 9.—A game-less Sunday in Boston was a Sunday of much speculation among the members of the Cub party stranded here yesterday. The question in the minds of the Cub party was what the connection between the New York and Boston baseball clubs.
For the last three years the world has been passing around that the owners of the New York Giants and Boston Braves are closely connected financially. Although this has been denied by the owners of both outfits, the connection of the teams seems to have been established by the numerous trades and deals between the clubs.
Last year in the middle of the pennant chase with McGraw shy a pitcher, the Giants announced the purchase of Hughie Jennings, one of the stars of the Boston staff, this season on the eve of the closing of the trading season between major league clubs, June 15, New York traded Catcher Earl Smith and Pitcher Jess Barnes to the Braves for Pitcher
Johnny Watson and Catcher Hank Goetz.
Yesterday the word was passed out that Hughie Jennings, former manager of the Detroit Tigers and for the last two years assistant to Manager McGraw of New York, would replace Frad Mitchell as pilot of the Braves.
This caps the year's dealings between the two clubs who started during the Winter when Christy Mathewson, Big Sig, and for years the star of the Giants pitching staff, was made president of the Boston Club.
Of course, both Judge Emil Fuchs vice president of the Braves, and the New York interests deny absolutely the connection of the clubs but you can't stop speculating of other league
officials and clubs.

The National Open Golf Championship Tourney Is On

By LAWRENCE PERRY.
(Copyright, 1923, by The Bee)

INWOOD, L. I., July 9.—Under flawless skies and with a fair breeze blowing, the velvety green stretches of the Inwood Country Club course today challenged the prowess of more than 350 of the foremost golfers of this country and Canada. The sharp snick of a distance drive opened the twenty-seventh annual national open golf championship.

Hagen, "Chick" Evans, Quimber, Bobby Jones, "Long Jim" Barnes, Freddie McLeod, Sarazen—heroes of past tournaments—are here, along with countless others of almost equal prominence in the history of the Royal and ancient game. So heavy is the list of contenders that the qualifying period has been stretched an extra day by the United States Golf Association. Of course within the next few days the list will be radically reduced and out of the total of 350 or more entrants, it is figured that not over thirty at the outside have more than the proverbial Chinaman's chance. Such is the glory of golf, however, that each of the brave 350 figures to be within the mystic 30.

Homebound writer met many college men from various sections of the country—the majority of them hailing from west of the Mississippi and as a consequence it can be regarded that the history of University of Washington eight at the Poughkeepsie regatta has done more for the course of western intercollegiate athletics than ten years of propaganda would have done. In fact, right now the interest displayed in the west over rowing suggests that in the course of a comparatively short time the sport of sweep swinging will rival football as a major sport.

The University of Wisconsin, for example, has already made great headway in reviving the sport at Madison and will send a crew to Poughkeepsie next year. At the University of Minnesota the writer found signs the other day already had begun to manifest itself. Further eastward, Ohio and Michigan are beginning to feel that the time has come to do something other than talk vaguely of installing the sport. University of California men who drifted into Montana to attend the Y. M. C. A. will stage a swimming exhibition in the "Y" pool. This is being put on not only to afford the boys the enjoyment of a competitive meet, but also for the purpose of giving the mothers an opportunity to witness the progress that is being made by the younger boys. The program will be published sometime between now and Friday. All mothers of the boys participating are invited to attend.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—A strong finish in the last inning of today's game gave Philadelphia a four to two victory over Pittsburgh and enabled the locals to take the odd game of the series. ### BROOKLYN 3; ST. LOUIS 3.

(By The Associated Press)

BROOKLYN, July 9.—Brooklyn evened the series of four games with St. Louis today, winning a weird game of ball marked by many shifts in the visitors' line-up. The score was 3 to 3. Fournier made his 12th homer of the season in the third inning with nobody on. Mueller was hit on the right temple by a pitched ball and knocked unconscious. He was assisted off the field after recovering.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
St. Louis 011 000 100—3; 8: 2.
Brooklyn 002 001 000—3; 10: 1.

GIANTS 13; CINCINNATI 6.

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 9.—Manager McGraw of the New York Nationals shook up his line-up before today's game and the Giants closed strongly against Cincinnati, winning the last game of the series 13 to 6. The game was a slugfest.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Cincinnati 010 100 300—6; 11: 2.
New York 030 024 22x—13; 16: 1.

Kinks-o' the Links

In medal play, Smith made in his card, on which a mistake has occurred. He plays the round of 18 holes in 97. His handicap is 16. He turned in his net total as 80 instead of 81. The mistake is later discovered by the official in charge. Is a player penalized for turning in an incorrect score for the round?

There is no penalty for such an offense as above stated. The player is to merely turn in his score for each hole. Often players, in order to find out their actual net score, complete the card by adding the scores for each hole and subtracting the handicap. A mistake in addition or subtraction is always possible. The player is not supposed to do this. It is the duty of the official in charge. When such a mistake has been made, the official checking up the cards simply places the correct total on the scorecard.

What is supposed to be the regulation size and weight of a golf ball?

The ball must not weigh over 1.62 ounces avoirdupois and the size not less than 1.62 inches in diameter.

SHORT GLOVES
Short white kid gloves with regulation stitching are worn with the most festive and flutty organdie frocks.

First of Series Copped by Twins

WINSTON-SALEM, July 9.—An Anderson home run with two on in the first inning enabled the Twins to defeat Danville here this afternoon by the score of 4 to 2. The team and also the fans were given a scare in the ninth when Danville loaded the bases with but one out, having an excellent chance to tie or even win the game, but after one batsman had fanned, Leard made a sensational catch of what looked to be a sure Texas leaguer off the bat of Smith, saving the game for Winston. Lefty Wilson was chosen by Manager Murphy, who got back into the game today after an illness of several days. After the first inning he was steady and pitched good ball as did his opponent Hengehold who kept the Tobaccoists hitless in the pinches.

Danville opened the game by scoring. Dorman was hit by a pitched ball, went to second on Overton's out second to first and scored on Smith's single to left. Smith stole second. Trexler struck out and Murphy out short to first.

The second run for the visitors came in the fifth. Dorman was again hit by a pitched ball. Overton hit to Faber who threw wild to first and Dorman came home. Smith, Trexler and Murphy were easy infield outs, leaving Overton stranded on third.

With the locals two runs ahead, the Virginians started a rally in the half of the ninth. Resco walked, Cochlin singled to rightfield. Wilson sacrificed them up a bag each. Dorman for the third time was hit by a pitched ball and trotted to first filling the bases and with but one out. As in the first and fifth innings, Hengehold either again showed his effectiveness or the Virginians simply had bad paralysis in the pinch. A single would have counted two runs, tying the score but Overton whiffed and Smith's fly to short left was speared by Leard who made a great catch, for the only fielding feature of the game.

The locals gained three of their runs in the first. Long and Hamby were on in infield hits when Anderson came up and slammed the ball over Regan's head for a home run. Another run was added in the fifth. With two out Clarke hit for two bases and scored on Anderson's single. Thus Anderson drove in all of the locals' runs.

WOULD COLLEGE TRAINER HELP

NEW YORK, July 9.—Would it pay major league clubs to have a highly specialized trainer as do college teams?

Ball clubs have trainers, but few of them do anything other than look after the uniforms and take care of minor injuries. The club doctor is always called in anything that looks at all serious.

College trainers keep their eye on the weight of the athletes, pay attention to their food and look after their condition in general. The question as to whether a real college trainer would help a major league club has been raised by the showing of three players this year. Babe Ruth of New York, Harry Hellmann of Detroit and Eddie Collins of Chicago.

Ruth took off 30 pounds from last year, his playing weight dropping from 235 to 205. Harry Hellmann, who has weighed as much as 225, but who played at about 210 last year, tips the beam at 180 this year. Eddie Collins, while no lighter, is in great shape.

Ruth and Hellmann realizing that weight was slowing them up, went on a diet, did much exercising and are playing the best game of their career. Collins, believing he was to go to New York in a trade, carefully prepped himself for the 1923 campaign. He is better than ever, although in his sixteenth year in the big show.

Condition has made over these three players. All of which merely strengthens the belief that a college trainer would help a major league club by watching closely the condition of his charges.

GRAND CIRCUIT WITNESSED BY A SMALL CROWD

(By The Associated Press)

FORT MIAMI, TOLEDO, O., July 9.—Guardian Trust, driven by N. J. Rosemire and paced by runner, trotted an exhibition race here this afternoon at the grand circuit meet in 2:02 1-4, having started to beat his record of 2:02 2-5.

A small crowd saw the long drawn out card of the event, the fastest of which was the first division of the Fort Meigs stake for 2:08 pacers.

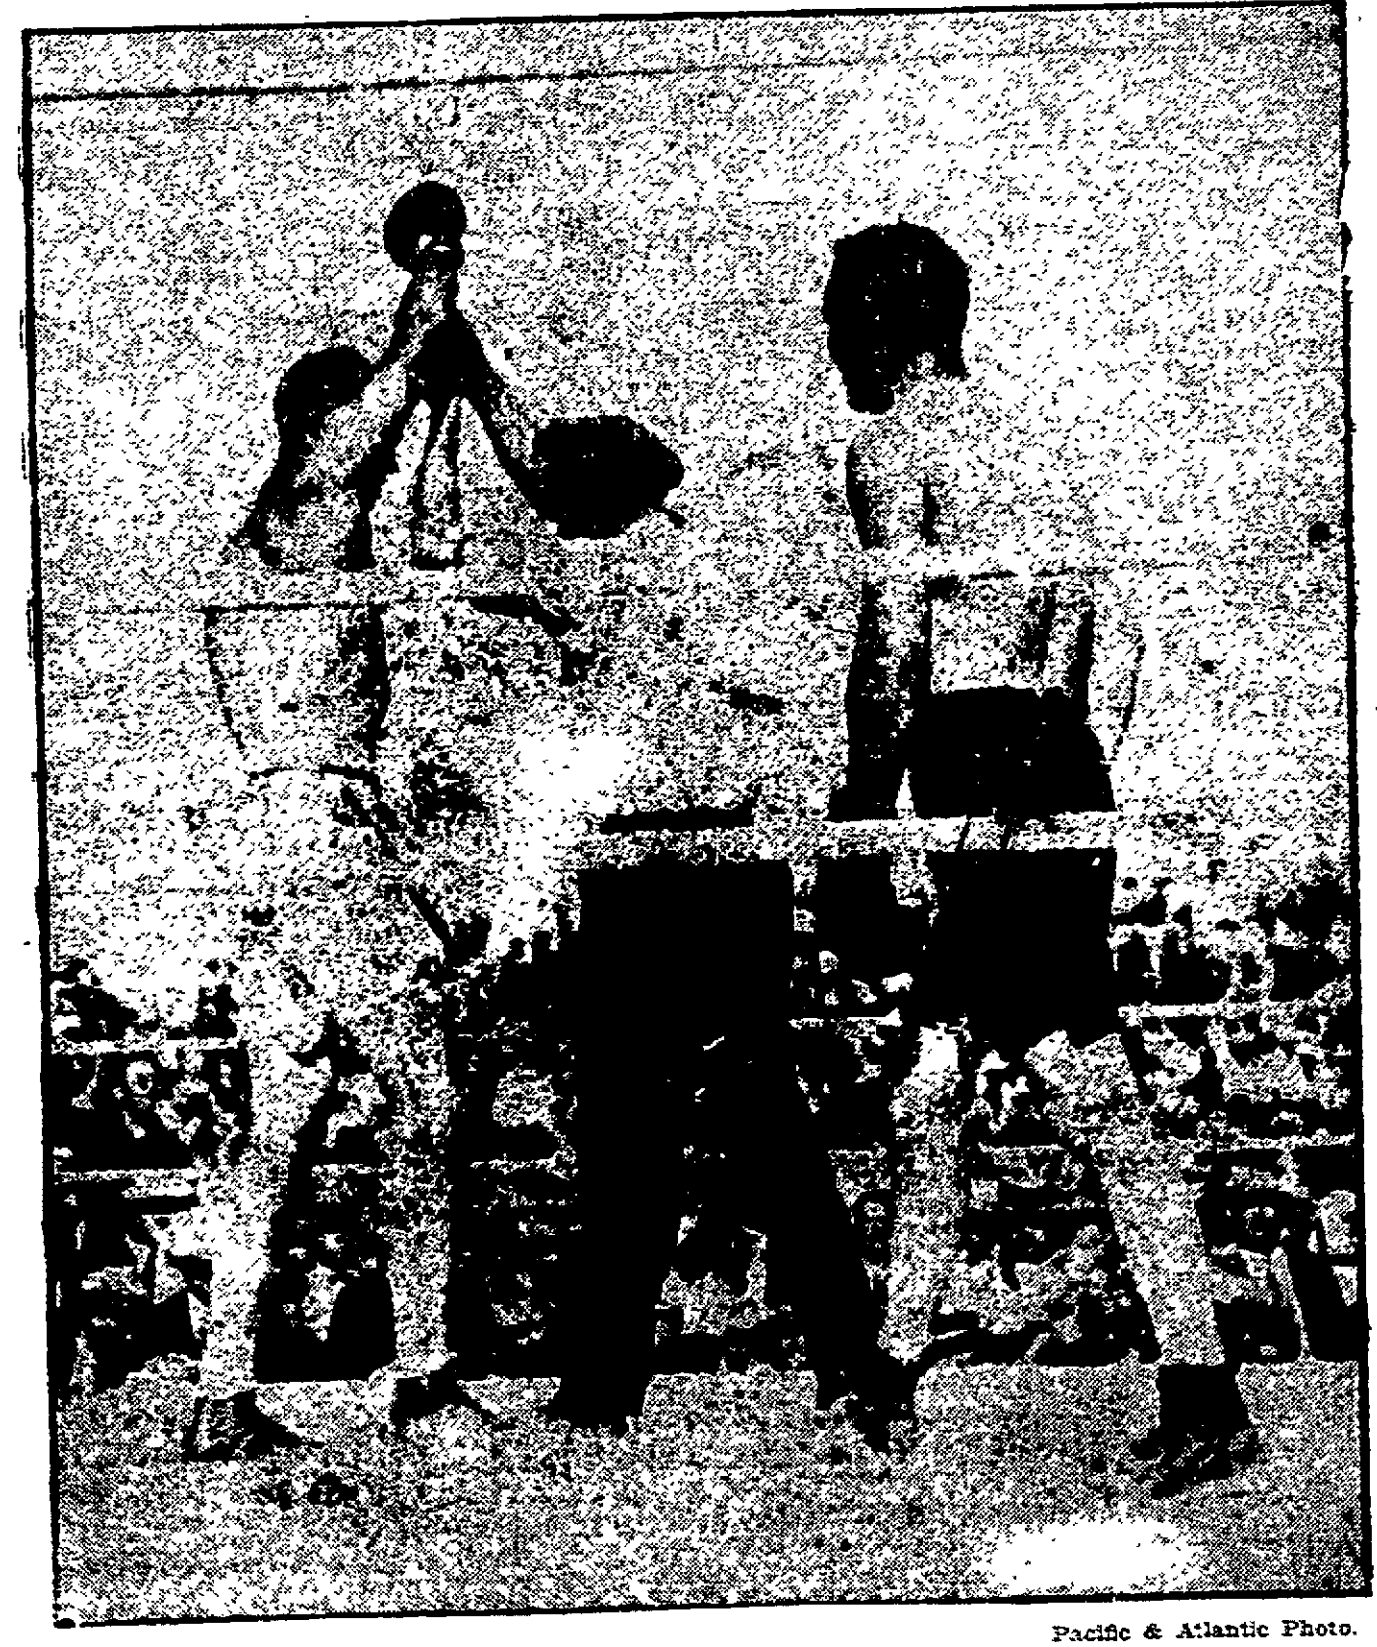

Lambert Todd, driven by Tommy Murphy, won after losing the first heat to Had Bee.

McGregor, the Great staged a surprise by winning the 2:06 trot after losing the first heat to Periscope.

The 2:08 pace went four heats and was won by Hal Abbe with Brownie Hal second and Ribbon Cane, third.

Logan, Hedgwood took the 2:04 pace by winning the last two heats and St. Robert's with Willis up won the 2:18 trot in straight heats with Jay Lee second and George Watts, third.

THE END OF THE BATTLE

Pacific & Atlantic Photo.

At the end of fifteen rounds of real championship battling, Referee James Daugherty held up the hand of Jack Dempsey as a signal of his victory. Despite the pace the two scrappers had set during their bout, they both appear comparatively fresh. Note especially in this picture the apparent calmness of Tommy Gibbons as he watches the verdict.

ANOTHER NO-HIT GAME IN S. S. L.

Slayton, pitching for Calvary, best Luther, the Lee street hurler, in a pitching duel yesterday. Slayton pitched a brilliant game allowing no hits and no walks. In addition he literally won his game by parking the ball over leftfield fence with one man on base for the only tallies of the game.

Luther also gave a great exhibition of twirling. Only three hits were garnered off his delivery and he struck out ten men. The Lee strutters backed him up in beautiful style in the field being credited with errorless ball.

Durham made a spectacular catch of Sublett's long fly up against rightfield fence. The box score:

BIG ATTENDANCE IN NATIONAL

NEW YORK, July 9.—Paid attendance at all National League games for the first half of this season, ending last week, totalled 300,000 in excess of the same period in 1922. President John A. Heydler revealed today at the regular mid-season meeting of the league. Indications, he said, pointed to the greatest season on record, in point of popular interest.

Erection of the National League's memorial to Adrian C. (Pop) Anson, one of the greatest players of all time, is nearing completion, it was announced and unveiling ceremonies are planned at Chicago early in September.

The league adopted a resolution deploring the loss of Empire Paul Genth who died recently after an operation for appendicitis. It was voted to defray all expenses connected with his illness and funeral, and to pay a year's salary in full to his widow. Cincinnati was the only club not represented at the meeting.

TO VOTERS OF PITTSYLVANIA
I beg to announce that I will be a candidate in the democratic primary in August next, for nomination for the office of commonwealth's attorney for this county. I will feel greatly indebted and deeply grateful to every man and woman who may favor me with support. Respectfully yours,
GEORGE T. RICE

With a difference. The new Javanese are done on cotton in the manner of the real Batik work and many of them are imported from Java—native sarongs, now clever sport costumes, negligees and slip-on dresses almost a specialty. The Batik garments worn by the Javanese themselves.

SLASH MADE IN SUGAR PRICES

NEW YORK, July 9.—Another slash was made in the price of refined sugar in the local market today. Granulated was cut to 8 7/8 by one refiner. This is 1 1/2 cents below the high price of the season. The drop was due to re-offering of 2,000 tons of refined sugar which had been shipped abroad; and returned because no foreign market could be found. The slack domestic demand also was a contributing factor.

SHELBY BANK CLOSES DOORS

(By The Associated Press)
GREAT FALLS, Mont., July 9.—The Shelby Bank and Trust Company of Great Falls, closed its doors today. George H. Stanton, president, was prominent in the financing of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight at Shelby, Montana, on July 4.

Mr. Stanton stated after the bank closed that it was solvent, but that it was impossible to procure money to meet the bank's obligations. The bank's statement in response to a formal call June 3, showed resources of $1,174,428 with deposits of approximately $600,000.

At the time the "second $100,000" was due Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, on his guarantee of $300,000 to meet Tommy Gibbons, Mr. Stanton loaned to Mayor James A. Johnson, treasurer of the fight, $49,000. It has been stated on authority that Mr. Stanton was insured against loss by collateral furnished by Johnson.

Further than to say that the closing of the bank had been voluntary, Mr. Stanton tonight declined to make comment.

SIKI MAY MEET GEORGES AGAIN

PARIS, July 9.—Battling Siki, the jungle baby, but himself in the way of meeting Georges Carpentier again by knocking out Marcel Nilles in the second round yesterday.

Nilles was unconscious for several minutes and the grinning Siki was being carried from the ring by white admirers when he woke up. Nilles, who lost the heavyweight championship of France to Carpentier played Siki's game by in fighting instead of outfighting. When the second round opened Siki sent the white man back on his heels with a stiff left to the jaw. The negro then came through with a right to the jaw which sent Nilles flat on his face.
